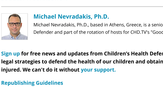
The Solari Report called the documentary an "eye-opening film" that "exposes five decades of medical-pharmaceutical democide in England, Scotland, and Wales." It said the individual cases featured in the documentary provide "a chilling and unique perspective" to viewers.

The documentary is co-produced by investigative journalist Jacqui Deevoy and by Phil Graham, and directed by award-winning directors Naeem and Ash Mahmood.

Deevoy tweeted that the documentary "shed[s] light on a topic that has been largely overlooked" by "weav[ing] together personal stories, expert interviews and investigative research."



"In the last 30 years, you can see good evidence that the National Health Service has become a killing machine," Corbett told the Solari Report, referring to the U.K.'s public health system.

Deevoy said, "The film gives a voice to the victims and their families, their heartfelt testimonies providing deep and personal insights."

She added:

> "Playing God' serves as a wake-up call, urging society to stand against medical democide. It aims to raise awareness, encourage dialogue and demand accountability from those responsible ... the film strives to create a lasting impact and initiate positive change within the U.K. healthcare system."

While the subject matter may be hard for some to comprehend and accept, the Solari Report wrote "this courageous documentary deserves to be seen so that the message of the filmmakers and individuals they interview does not go ignored."

Guess what? This is and has been happening everywhere. Certainly it's been happening here in North America. Why? That's easy. It's part of population control. It's just that we the people are, because of the Covid jab, finally figuring it out, but this has always been the case and our so called leaders have always been in on the game. They know exactly what's going on. These people are not stupid. This is just like war, in fact it IS a war. The Great Reset? Open borders? Think about it. That's to replace the current crop of people with those coming over the border. After all, Americans have gotten too big for their britches They need obedient workers, who do what they're told, and will take whatever they're given. Those old rules that most of us grew up with are out the door. This is the reason for wanting to get rid of all of the older generation. Don't need that group of pesky people who are critical thinkers. That's no longer needed. Talk about a sick world we're living in. And it's here and now and again, it's happening everywhere. The UK hospitals are just a small part of the population control agenda, just like those hospitals all over the world, and I'm pretty sure that American hospitals put those in the UK to shame when it comes to killing people. As the classic Eagles Hotel California says "You can check out any time you like, but you can never leave".

Yes it is the ugly truth, but it IS the truth and we as a group of people, need to finally get our heads around this and realize that this is not a game. They mean to kill us, and they also mean to profit off of killing us. They want to get rid of most of the current crop because we are too expensive. They want someone who will work for practically nothing, they also want dumbed down people, with no critical thinking skills. They just want those who go along with the consensus, with absolutely no thought, and unfortunately, they've done a stellar job of dumbing down the majority of society. The level of stupidity is beyond anything that I ever thought I would see in my lifetime and as the days pass, just when I think that it cannot bet any worse, I find that the foolishness is beyond pathetic.

The sad truth is, we all know of someone we loved dying at the hands of the hospitals. That fact alone says it all.
When we go to the emergency room, we change from being human and become nothing more then a symbol of $$$ for the hospitals and big pharma.
Goes like this: "Incoming injured".
To: "What insurance do you have?" pretty quickly. That, is the first question.

Watched this. Thanks for getting this documentary out to the public. The 'medical field,' just like Big Pharma, have been murderers long before COVID. And victims were largely ignored then just as now.

Most ill-rated Hollywood movies don't contain as much criminal activity as this documentary does.

Richard Thaler is a brilliant behavioral economist, Nobel Prize winner, and a major contributor to the "Nudge Theory", that provided impetus for the infamous UK "Nudge Unit". His work on human decision making and cognitive biases was groundbreaking and, in part, helped governments worldwide to hypnotize most people into taking "Covid Vaccines".

I want to get a message to Vikki Spit.
Vaccine manufacturers immunity began in USA where most of the vaccines are manufactured.
It is called the 1544 National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act of 1986.
(1) subpart 2, part B, paragraph 2 reads "Provides that no Vaccine manufacturers shall be liable in a civil action for damages arising from a Vaccine related injury or death
(1) resulting from unavoidable side effects; or
(2) solely due to the manufacturers failure to provide direct warnings.
PROVIDES THAT A MANUFACTURER MAY BE HELD LIABLE WHERE
(1) SUCH MANUFACTURES ENGAGED IN THE FRAUDULENT OR INTENTIONAL WITHHOLDING OF INFORMATION or
(2) SUCH MANUFACTURERS FAILED TO EXERCISE DUE CARE. Permits punitive damages in such civil actions under certain circumstances "
Capitals are my own to highlight where we fight the manufacturers back as more
